

Sub-banding is needed to prevent inter-mode interference mainly between wide- and narrow-band modes. The bottom 40% of the band should be reserved for narrow modes - CW and narrow ditigals. Without this, there is unnecessary interference.